That illegal cattle grid in the middle of a bridleway

Natural England have illegally put a cattle grid in the middle of a bridleway on Penwith Moor, Cornwall And nobody is doing anything about.

What would happen if we put a cattle grid across the middle of the path leading to the home of the chief executive of Natural England, Helen Phillips?

Would she just leave it there, look the other way and do nothing about it?

Is there one law for Natural England and one law for riders?

All those in favour of putting a cattle grid across the path to the home of Helen Phillips
